

Fishing Styles

Katmai National Park and Preserve is world renown for the bear viewing. Coastal brown bears (same thing as a "grizzly" only larger) gather along rivers every summer to feast on spawning Sockeye "Red" salmon that have migrated from the fertile waters of Bristol Bay in the Bering Sea.

The bears have very little interest in humans – whew. Their attention is on which fishing style is best. There's the popular "stand and wait" technique that the above two bruins are exhibiting at Brooks Falls. Snorkeling and dash-n-grab are also quite popular (see inset photos below).
